Students' investment in their future

Higher fees = greater expectations = complaints?

Professional body accreditation

Students want jobs - how are we preparing them for this?

But some things are certain and not likely to change:

Competition for jobs is tough

"On average I have a few seconds to look at CVs, and if it's a good one, I'll then spend maybe a minute more!"

It's massive difference between someone getting a job and someone who doesn't.

So any poor training is jeopardising people's potential careers...."

Unfortunately we won't be taking your application further.

Thank you for your application for Assistant Curator with the National Trust. Unfortunately, your application has not been successful on this occasion. We received an unprecedented number of applications – over 2000 – creating significant competition for the places available. Due to these high numbers of applications, we regret we will not be able to provide individual feedback. We would like to thank you for your interest and taking the time to complete the application process. We wish you good luck for the future. Kind regards Curation & Experience Team

COMPETENCY

Demonstrable characteristics of a person that enable performance of the job.

So are we preparing our students for jobs?

This is the basis of degree apprenticeships that are being designed and led by employers

ESSAYS VS WORKPLACE SKILLS

But how long?

3000 words?

As short as possible?

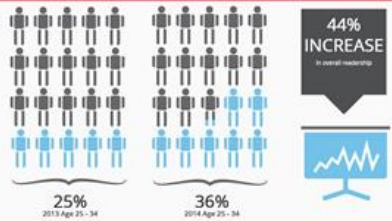

"This Internet is great for research. I think my report on California breaks a Guinness World Record. 174.513 separate sources!"

COMMUNICATING INFORMATION EFFECTIVELY....

- Executive summaries
- Graphs
- Tables
- Photos
- Visualisation
- Infographics
- As few words as possible?

COMPETENCY BASED INTERVIEWS

A transcript is not enough...

- We need to use competency based assessment.
- Standard in medical disciplines - acronym CBME
- Attitude, skills and behaviours that are needed in the professional context

- Increasingly our students face competency based interviews
 - Scenarios
 - Case studies
 - Assessment centres
- Need to evidence their skills and demonstrate competencies

EXAMPLES

setting assignments that reflect tasks likely to be encountered in the workplace, thus equipping students with demonstrable evidence to enhance employability

ENVIRONMENTAL LAW & POLICY

- Removed exam
- Respond to a scenario by advising a client
- Peer feedback to the presentation
- Written up as a client briefing

Environmental Justice

PRINCIPLES & PRACTICE OF ENVIRONMENTAL CONSERVATION

- Critically evaluate a current policy presented by an outside speaker, the author
- Pull out main details
- Using cross referencing
- Produce a summary

TECHNIQUES IN APPLIED ECOLOGY

- A portfolio indexed against the Chartered Institute competency framework
- Reflecting on learning, preparation for professional CPD recording
- Each student selected a species
 - Compared and contrasted survey methods
 - Wrote a method statement, as required for planning and licence applications
 - Shared across the class

CCS MONITOR REPORT

- Second year civil engineering students undertake a mock CCS auditor's inspection on a real site
 - Find the site
 - Arrange a visit
 - Complete a risk assessment
 - Carry out an inspection
 - Present findings to the site team
 - Present findings to class
 - Prepare a report
 - Submit feedback form

CASE STUDIES & ROLE PLAY

MSc Civil Engineering students these skills are taught through a real-life case study based on a civil engineering disaster (e.g. the collapse of Carillion) where students are required to take on the role of a team of management consultants and analyse the circumstances leading up to the disaster and formally present their findings in a role play situation

WHAT DO THE STUDENTS THINK?

"a particular highlight was the phase 1 / management plan, EIA critiquing published environment statements and Law scenario advising clients"

"This was the best coursework we'd done all year"

"The visit was incredibly informative, we were walked around the site and all our questions were answered in depth."

"Through this task the group learnt new things about the construction industry."

"assessed work has given me great grounding and the confidence for my future career"

"exams aren't representative of employment related activities"
