

Black History Month 2024: What progress has been made to celebrate and support Black colleagues' excellence in Educational Research?

Part of series: Black History Month 2024

Video 15 Oct 2024

As part of Black History Month 2024, BERA is releasing a series of three videos, recorded at the 2024 BERA Annual Conference and WERA Focal Meeting, featuring the voices and insights of Black BERA members. These videos address critical issues related to Black colleagues in educational research and represent an important step in our ongoing commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion within the field.

The question asked in this video is:

What progress has been made to celebrate and support Black colleagues' excellence in Educational Research?

Listen as our colleagues explore the strides taken and the work that still needs to be done to create a more inclusive and equitable academic landscape.

We invite all members of the educational research community to engage with these videos, reflect on the insights shared, and continue the conversation about how we can collectively support Black researchers. By listening to their experiences and perspectives, we can better understand the work that lies ahead in creating a more equitable and inclusive field.

In this Video

Paul Miller, Professor

Director, Institute for Educational & Social Equity at Institute for Educational & Social Equity

Paul Miller, PhD, is professor of Educational Leadership & Social Justice and President of the Commonwealth Council for Educational Administration & Management. He is also Principal Consultant and Director of Educational Equity Services. He has...

Charmaine Brown, Dr

Senior Lecturer at University of Greenwich

Charmaine Brown, EdD is an Early Career Researcher and a Senior Lecturer on the Initial Teacher Training (ITT) Further Education (FE) programme in the School of Education at the University of Greenwich. She is a member of the Institute of...

Saffron Powell, Miss

PhD Candidate at King's College London

Saffron Powell is a PhD researcher at King's College London. Her research stems from her experience as a science teacher and middle leader and looks into how antiracist practice can be included in teacher training policy. Her research interests...

Diane Warner, Dr

Senior Lecturer at Manchester Metropolitan University

Dr Diane Warner is a senior lecturer in teacher education at Manchester Metropolitan University. She started in education as a primary school teacher and moved into initial teacher education in 2004 working on campuses in the North and South of...

Christine Callender, Professor

Professor of Educational Equity and Social Justice at University College London

Christine is an academic, lecturer and researcher of race in teacher education. She has been an educator for over twenty years, initially working in schools before moving to Higher Education. She was also a Regional Director for the National...